

The Digital Nomad Visa – Residency Route: Steps to Take

Residency solutions for remote professionals living and working from Portugal

By Catarina Sardinha, 26th March 2026

Background

The digital nomad visa allows remote workers or self-employed individuals to pursue their profession in Portugal, enjoying all of the quality of life that Portugal has to offer.

The Digital Nomad Visa offers good residency options for non-EU digital nomads who either want to work remotely while living in Portugal for one year or wish to make Portugal a permanent residency. It is also relevant for individuals applying for a residency permit and following the path for Portuguese citizenship or, alternatively, applying for the Portuguese Permanent Resident Permit.

Overview

With the last amendment of the relevant law, the Portuguese Government implemented the Digital Nomad Visa, specifically allowing foreign professionals to provide their services remotely, either as a subordinate worker or as an independent worker from Portugal, and to apply for residency in Portugal.

Step 1: Portuguese Tax number and Opening a Portuguese Bank Account

To apply for the visa, you will need to prove that you have sufficient means of subsistence in Portugal for the period of your stay (a minimum of one year). This means that a Portuguese bank account, and consequently a Portuguese tax number, are required.

A deposit of the minimum monthly Portuguese salary of €920 in 2026, multiplied by twelve (the minimum stay period) is suggested, to present to the Portuguese Immigration Authorities (i.e., €11,040).

Step 2: Collect Documentation

You will need to assemble a number of documents for the appointment at the Portuguese Consulate:

General documentation required to request a visa:

- A) Proof of legal residency in the country from where you are applying
- B) Travel insurance covering necessary medical expenses, valid for 12 months
- C) Criminal record certificate
- D) Proof of accommodation in Portugal for, at least, 12 months
- E) Proof of means of subsistence in Portugal

Specific documentation for the digital nomad visa

- Working for an employer – one of the following documents:
 - Work contract; or,
 - Promise of work contract; or,
 - Declaration by employer confirming the labour link.
- Independent professional activity – one of the following documents:
 - Proof of company incorporation; or,
 - Contract of service provision; or,
 - Written proposal of services provision contract; or,
 - Document attesting the services provided to one or more entities.
- Proof of average monthly income for the last three months with a minimum value equivalent to four times the Portuguese minimum wage: €3,680 (in 2027 the minimum wage is expected to be €970, which means that the minimum relevant wage for this Visa will be €3,880).
- A document confirming tax residence.

Step 3: Obtain Appointment

Obtain an appointment before the Portuguese Consulate, where a meeting must take place to deliver the requested documentation in order for the visa application to be processed.

Step 4: Final Steps

After analysis of the application is complete, the Digital Nomad Visa is issued for a period of four months and allows two legal entries into Portugal. When in Portugal, an appointment needs to be held with the Portuguese Immigration Authorities (AIMA) to complete the process: collecting biometrics data and obtaining the final Residence Permit. Once the Digital Nomad Residence Permit is issued, it will be valid for two years and there is an option to then renew it.

Advantages

Work remotely and legally from Portugal Mainland or either of the Islands of Madeira or the Azores, and enjoying the amazing weather and food.

In Madeira, the “Digital Nomads Madeira” has already been created, which is a village for digital nomads, where they can enjoy workspaces, places of activity and community, in a technological environment.

After five years from the issuance of the first residence permit card, applicants may become eligible to apply for permanent residency in Portugal. Under the current nationality framework (May 2026), eligibility for Portuguese citizenship generally arises after 10 years of legal residency (or 7 years for nationals of Portuguese-speaking countries).

Finally, permanent visa free entry and movement in the Schengen Area, for up to 90 days out of 180 days.
